

Ministry WITH the Poor

As United Methodists we believe in the sacred worth and dignity of all people. And yet, we live in a world where broken systems too often block the path for communities to live into their full potential.

Together, our church is transforming the world. And along the way, we ourselves are being transformed. As we bring Christ's message of radical love to a broken world, we encounter Christ and can learn new ways of being the church.

By listening to and learning from people impacted by our broken economic system, we can together give life to a new vision – one that embraces God's economy of abundance and ensures that all God's children have the opportunity to thrive.

Walking WITH

Walking with the indigenous Lumad people in the Philippines, who experience economic and health concerns as a result of climate change, has fueled efforts to responsibly care for creation. How are the root causes of poverty preventing abundant life in your community?

Dreaming WITH

Building relationships in the Yugorobi District of Nigeria created space for neighbors to dream together, construct a school on donated land, and provide affordable and quality education to an area that previously lacked access. How are you listening to the needs of your neighbors?

Partnering WITH

Partnering in worship led two churches in Washington, D.C. to partner in securing affordable housing that was vital to the community. Do you want to experience deeper connection?

Advocating WITH

Through relationships with undocumented immigrants in their Texas community, a United Methodist Church was able to respond to the immediate needs while also collaborating to advocate for immigration reform. Are your ministries building foundations for a hope-filled future?
